Prabhas Moghe is our Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor for Research and Academic Affairs.

Romayne Botti is our new Vice Chancellor of Finance joining us from Carnegie Mellon U. She will be a partner with me and the leadership team in ensuring we are not just doing business as usual but rather aligning resources to allow us to invest in the strategic priorities of the campus, each school and institute.

Anna Branch is our Vice Chancellor of Diversity, Inclusion and Community Engagement who just joined us in August from UMass and has quickly jumped in to enhance our operations around diversity and inclusion across recruitment, curriculum, research and community engagement across our campus.

Lavinia Boxill is our Vice Chancellor for Advancement overseeing fundraising and alumni relations. She's been with Rutgers for more than 20 years.

Jennifer Hollingshead is our Vice Chancellor for Marketing and Communications who has joined us from the University of Missouri to help us drive out-of-state enrollment through strategic marketing and communications efforts including, a redesigned website and a fresh approach to our marketing initiatives.

Courtney McAnuff is our Vice Chancellor for Enrollment Management. In addition to student recruitment and continually raising the academic profile of our students, Courtney's team is focused on streamlining the student experience through exemplary customer service in financial aid and registration through One Stop.

Felicia McGinty is our Executive Vice Chancellor of Administration and Planning and leads and directs our day-to-day operation to support the student experience. She's focused on working with academic and administrative units to better integrate and expand career development and experiential learning opportunities for our students, managing space and infrastructure needs and outlining a process for academic and strategic planning.

Salvador Mena is our Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs oversees a number of areas that are responsible for the experience outside of the classroom including pride and community activities, and student development experiences. He is leading our efforts focused on student mental health and basic needs insecurity that are two areas that impact students' ability to be successful in the classroom.
